The Directors of The Great Geauga County Fair continue to work around the clock reviewing every aspect of the September 3-7, 2020 fair.

We are working with state and local health officials and following the Responsible Restart Ohio guidelines for fairs as provided by Governor DeWine. We will continue to monitor the situation and adjust as we move forward to the 198th edition of the fair.

While some high-risk activities and shows have had to be postponed, most of our family-friendly events remain intact.

Entries are now open for anyone wishing to exhibit at this year's fair. We urge you to enter online at the fair website geaugafair.com. The entry deadline is Wednesday, August 12, 2020.

Grandstand shows will remain, and seating capacity will be limited to 50%. Tickets to Grandstand Shows can be purchased online as well as Advance Sale admission to the fair. Our food and concessions will adhere to the safety guidelines provided by the state and Bates Bros Amusements will be providing rides again this year. They have worked with health officials on the strict sanitation and ride program to continue to provide a positive experience.

We understand that this is a difficult and stressful time, but we are committed to working towards a safe event for those who wish to participate.

Please continue to monitor the fair website for details as we move forward at geaugafair.com.

Health Commissioner Calls for Masks in Public Places as the County Risk Level is Raised

Chardon, Ohio – Geauga County Health Commissioner, Tom Quade, is strongly encouraging Geauga County residents who are able to wear a face mask to do so whenever they are in the presence of others outside of their own households. This call for action is not a local public health order nor is it a state mandate in Geauga County.

The Geauga County Health Commissioner “strongly believes that it is far better for the public to understand the value of prevention and to make the decision on their own to protect one another than to rely on the government to step in and attempt to order common sense, mutual respect, and simple human compassion for other people with whom we share our space.” He does also recognize certain obligations. “When people make personal decisions which put the health and safety of the general public in jeopardy, we do have a responsibility to act. That is why health departments exist.” Our county risk level assessment as defined by the Ohio Department of Health has been elevated from level one (yellow) to level two (orange). The state’s level three risk assessment carries with it a state-mandated mask requirement.

Quade suggests that because our individual experiences are intertwined, we are all balancing our individual freedoms and our community’s wellbeing. “It is like minding our speed when driving in school zones. It is inconvenient when we are in a rush but we have a civil as well as legal obligation to protect the children. We don’t simply tell them to stay home if they’re afraid to cross the street when we’re driving through.”

Quade calls for sustained efforts to prevent the increases of cases and hospitalizations occurring outside our county. Geauga County businesses are also encouraged to consider requiring customers to wear masks, especially in and around Middlefield, where the recent community spread is higher. According to the June responses to the health department’s community input survey, observing low rates of mask use by patrons in retail and grocery stores, restaurants, and bars is among the leading reasons people are likely to do business elsewhere. Masks are good for the public’s health. They may also be good for business.

Health Commissioner Quade has also been working closely with school administrators throughout the county on return to school plans in an attempt to minimize the inherent increased risk of transmission. “One of the most effective things the community can do now to minimize the risk is to reduce the number of cases in the general population in advance of students and teachers returning to school. The progress we make is made together.”
